DIMO Software obtains ISO 27001 certification for its Notilus solution

Limonest, 24 November 2015 - DIMO Software enters a new stage in its development and strengthens its position as publisher of management solutions.

DIMO Software has just obtained ISO 27001 certification for its Notilus Travel & Expense Management solution. This approval complements that received by its French hosting provider (NC2) in 2013. "ANSSI [French national agency for information system security] is pushing us to reinforce our security features", explains Hélène CHARLIER, head of information system security at DIMO Software. "Making IT infrastructures secure is a good thing, but if the applications aren't secure then the system is not complete".

DIMO Software is therefore confirming and emphasising its Quality and Security approach. ISO 27001 certification is recognised as being one of the strictest standards with regard to information security. For Notilus, it guarantees the existence of processes enabling the identification and prevention of all of the risks associated with the IT security of its applications.

With Notilus, DIMO Software has therefore become one of the first publishers in France to be equipped with such a standard. The ISO 27001 standard is the only comprehensive, international and auditable standard that defines requirements relating to an Information Security Management System (ISMS).

"It is of strategic importance for DIMO Software to provide the best available data security for our customers using the Notilus solution. We did not want any break in the security chain linking us, as a publisher, and our hosting provider. Like many publishers, we did not wish to rely solely on the certification of our hosting provider. Moreover, we chose to work with a French hosting provider, thereby guaranteeing that the data remains on French soil", Jean-Paul GENOUX, CEO of DIMO Software explains.

This difference is the result of a very structured approach to analysis and continued improvement, which has been in place since December 2014, aiming to reinforce the management, reliability and performance of DIMO Software's Information Security Management System (ISMS). "FIDENS - who assisted us with this approach - were extremely efficient, and their help was invaluable", Hélène CHARLIER points out.

"Even so, obtaining this certification is not an end in itself. DIMO Software is constantly improving its procedures and investing in technology in order to best anticipate the requirements of our current and future customers", Hélène CHARLIER concludes.

By playing the certification card, DIMO Software is arming itself to stand out from the rest in a market where security, integrity and data quality are becoming real strategic issues for a publisher.
